Membership Renewal Time

A new year means it is time to renew your NOU membership, if you have not done so already. Thanks to those individuals who have already renewed, as well as to those who have joined for the first time. If you are currently not a member, it is a good time to think about starting the year out right by joining the organization. Memberships can now be purchased online by visiting this page. If you are unable to do it online, you may still join the NOU or renew your membership by sending a check (payable to NOU) of $25 (regular membership), $40 (sustaining membership, which includes a $15 donation), or $10 (student membership) to David Cunningham, NOU Treasurer, 10431 S 105th St., Papillion, NE 68046. A handy membership form can be found in this newsletter.

Remembering Alice Kenitz

Longtime NOU member Alice Kenitz of Gering passed away on 16 January 2026. Alice was born in Omaha on 28 March 1935. She was raised in Gering and graduated as valedictorian in 1953. She attended Nebraska Wesleyan, majoring in Chemistry and minoring in Biology. She graduated in 1957, summa cum laude. Alice married Lee Kenitz in 1960 and had one child, Steve Lee in 1963. Alice ran the lab for her family's medical practice, Gentry Clark Medical Center. She retired after 40 years in 2000. Alice was a very active member of the NOU and was a staple at meetings for many years. She was a charter member of the Records Committee and then subsequently served six additional years. She served as President in 2001-02 and Vice-president from 2003-04. She also was the longtime compiler for the Scotts Bluff Christmas Bird Count, conducted the Murray Lake Breeding Bird Survey route for many years and contributed to Breeding Bird Atlas projects. Much of the information provided here was taken from her full obituary, which is available here: <https://www.dignitymemorial.com/obituaries/gering-ne/alice-kenitz-12714584>

Nebraska's Best Birds of 2025

The year 2025 is now in the books and with its conclusion comes the opportunity to look back at the birds that defined the year. Below, the top birds of 2025 are ranked, in reverse order, with the bird of the year coming at the end. Note that most of these sightings are subject to review by the Nebraska Ornithologists' Union Records Committee, but I purposely only included sightings that appear likely to pass scrutiny because they were photographed. The selection and their rank are solely the opinion of the Editor, so please send criticism, corrections, or omissions to him. It ended up being an amazing year on the rarity front. No new state birds were added, but there was a long list of significant records. Without further ado, here is the rundown.

11. Honorable mentions: The list of great birds in just the honorable mentions is a great indicator of what a great year it was on the rarity front. Among the honorable mentions are Long-tailed Jaeger, White Ibis and Gray Flycatcher. The 14th documented record of Long-tailed Jaeger involved two birds found by Tobin Brown on a hot 15 August at piddly Oak Lake in Lincoln. This small lake arguably claims the state's best larid (gulls, terns, jaegers) list on an acre-for-acre basis. The relatively small size also afforded great views for the small number of chasers who made it in time before the jaegers moved on. White Ibis has in recent years almost become regular in occurrence but one discovered by Steven Mlodinow at the west end of Lake McConaughy on 25 August was still a nice find. Finally, the Nebraska panhandle was at one time a frontier where the occurrence of many western species was a mystery. At the turn of the century Gray Flycatcher would likely have been the bird of the year on this list if this nifty list existed at that time. Now, it might be the last time it appears on the list as increased coverage of the panhandle, along with possible range expansion by the species, has resulted in the Gray Flycatcher becoming essentially rare but regular. In August, two different birds were documented in Kimball County.

10. Anna's Hummingbird: Juniata Whittecar had a visit by an Anna's Hummingbird 25-27 June 2025 at her place nestled in the Pine Ridge of Dawes County. In a decade since the state's first record in 2016, this species has almost become annual with nine total records.

9. Black-throated Sparrow: Prior to 2025 Nebraska had eight records of this attractive species split into two equal groups: birds found in summer out west and birds appearing at feeders in winter in the east. Nebraska's 9th record fell into the former bin when Eugen Huryn found one south of Harrison, Sioux County, on 14 June. Photo by Eugene Huryn.

8. White-tailed Kite: Sometimes finding a big-time rarity just boils down to being at the right place at the right time. Some could call them dumb-luck birds, or they could be cast as the fruit of perseverance of being out there. Either way, a White-tailed Kite found by Joel Jorgensen at Lange Waterfowl Production area on 22 April was the 8th Nebraska record and the first in fifteen years. Photo by Joel Jorgensen.

7. Arctic Tern: One of several mega-rarities that are being detected more frequently because of better coverage and also increased awareness of subtle differences between this species from other sterna terns. All records for this species have been in the first quarter of the current century. Nebraska's 8th record was found by Stephen Brenner at Lake Minatare on 11 August at perhaps an unexpected time and the bird was in an interesting plumage. Photo by Boni Edwards.
6. Pacific Wren: This species may be regular or very nearly so in far western Nebraska, but the state still claims only a handful of records. It was only split from Winter Wren in 2010 and similarities between the two little wrens keeps the bar high for what becomes an accepted record. Stephen Brenner documented Nebraska's 5th state record at Oliver Reservoir 30 September. Photo by Stephen Brenner.
5. Costa's Hummingbird: While hummingbirds like Anna's and Black-chinned have dramatically increased in the number of occurrences over a short period of time, Costa's has remained more elusive. A late season hummingbird at a residence in Lincoln was first identified to this species on 29 October. It was subsequently brought to the attention of the birding community and pretty much anyone who wanted to see it had an opportunity. Homeowner and host Jennifer Munson will forever live in the hearts of Nebraska birders for her graciousness. This record is also only the 4th for the state and the first in a dozen years. Photo by Tobin Brown.
4. Grace's Warbler: A late-season overshoot migrant appeared at a farmstead south of North Platte on the late date of 3 June and will be Nebraska's 3rd record. While likely a one-day wonder, the sighting only came to light afterwards through the spiderwebs of the internet. Fortunately, this mega-find was photographed.
3. Swallow-tailed Kite: At one time this was a breeding species in the state but was extirpated shortly after settlement by European Americans. Prior to 2025, there were only two modern records and neither involved chaseable birds. One of the big highlights of 2025 for many was the opportunity to not only see one Swallow-tailed Kite in Nebraska but two flying over west Lincoln during the latter part of August into the first couple days of September. Shari Schwartz and John Carlini were the first to sight one of the kites on 17 August. Photo by John Carlini.

2. Crested Caracara: A big chunk of this year's countdown are raptors unexpectedly discovered by chance and circumstance and not by any special strategy. The biggest of the three raptor finds came towards the end of the year when Tobin and Keegan Brown, along with Eugene Huryn, discovered a caracara in flight near Clear Creek Wildlife Management Area in Garden County on 6 December. The bird was seen by many for a few days and represents the first caracara to be photographed in the wild, as the first state record was a bird taken to raptor recovery. Photo by Johnathan Nikkila.
1. Sagebrush Sparrow: Even though there is not much separation with respect to significance between the tops birds on this list, the Sagebrush Sparrow found by Michael Willison on 19 August 2025 at I-80 exit 1 in Kimball County is my top bird of 2025 because this is the first record of this species with supporting documentation (i.e., photographs). Photo by Michael Willison.

Bring on the good birds of 2026!

2025 was a phenomenal year for great birds (and birders) in NE. Tobin Brown shattered the Nebraska Big Year Record with 355 species, eclipsing Paul Dunbar's 2013 record of 347. Tobin's planning and execution was spectacular and his drive/dedication especially impressive. Will a Nebraska 350 be like the 4-minute mile...impossible until someone does it once? It's hard to believe that anyone will break this record any time soon, but it IS possible and the blueprint is clear. You can get all the stats on Tobin's record run here Nebraska Big Year 2025 • Tobin and read his blog here: Blog • Tobin. Congrats Tobin on a phenomenal record and also to brother Keegan Brown who simultaneously compiled the 4th biggest year ever at 340. Check out the 2025 Nebraska Birding List Report by Records Committee Chair Mark Brogie to find out who made big moves...including several of the top 20 birders adding 5+ birds to their state lists. Simply astounding.

See the 2025 'Birds of the Year' countdown from Vice-president Joel Jorgensen for more details on the exceptional rarities and vagrants that graced our state this year. It's hard to argue that the unprecedented December appearance of a Crested Caracara in Garden County found by Tobin and Keegan Brown and Eugene Huryn was the icing on the cake. Someone better at math than I might be able to calculate the probability of that bird showing up in December in Nebraska AND flying across Highway 92 at the exact moment they were passing by. I can't even fathom the odds. Many birders were able to make the trek just west of Lake McConaughy to add this crazy-looking falcon to their life/state lists, being only the 2nd record and first to be 'chaseable.' Not only was this a phenomenal bird, it turned out to be #400 for both Michael Willison and Bill Huser. Congrats to both of you for hitting a milestone that only NINE have achieved.

Finally, NOU needs your help again. We need two members (for at least 5 years) to join the Nominating Committee to help identify our new officer/board members for election at the spring meeting in May. The good news is that all but one of our current officers and Board members will continue in their positions. The bad news is that the 'one' is a VERY important one. Janis Paseka has decided to retire as Editor of the Nebraska Bird Review (NBR) after >2 decades of amazing work compiling our flagship publication. The biggest thank you's we can muster go out to Janis, as well as assistant editor Joe Gubanyi who is also stepping down. The NOU owes you both a huge debt of gratitude for all your contributions.

The Editor position is one that is both extremely important and challenging. It will take an individual that has both skill and drive. Some tough decisions about the future of the NBR need to be made in 2026 and this will fall primarily on the new Editor and the three new members of the Publications Committee (2 at large and 1 from the Records Committee) that also need to be identified. Article X, Section 2 of the NOU Bylaws states: The Editor, in consultation with the Publications Committee, shall be responsible for the form, general content, and publication of the NBR. Please consider becoming the new Editor or joining the Publications Committee. WE NEED YOU!! Contact any officer, board member or me to discuss the position, ask questions and/or indicate your willingness to serve.

The Board of Directors has been discussing the future of the NBR for the better part of the last year. With a new Editor, the consensus is that the NBR needs to change to a primarily (if not entirely) digital format and quickly, especially in the light of losing our Editor(s). Another possibility is reducing the number of issues in future volumes from 4/year to 1/year. The rising printing and shipping costs of this publication consume as much as 80% of the membership revenue each year, which essentially prevents us from doing anything else meaningful as an organization to further our mission of the Study, Appreciation and Protection of Birds. We will either be able to keep the membership costs the same (or less) and be able to do more with our member contributions than pay a printer and the US Postal Service.

We certainly understand that moving to a digital format for the NBR may not be popular with members who have been collecting printed copies, perhaps for decades. A big increase in membership fees to cover the rising costs would also be unpopular. No matter the path, there will be change. If you have any strong feelings on this subject, please feel free to contact me or another officer/board member...or better yet, join the Publications Committee. The greater membership of NOU will likely be discussing and potentially voting as to the future of the NBR, membership fees and the direction we will be heading as an organization in the very near future. We need your input. If you are able, we need your passion and expertise to help maintain the Nebraska Bird Review...and NOU...in perpetuity.

Until the next Burrowing Owl, Bird how you wanna Bird...mindfully.

2025 NEBRASKA BIRDING LIST REPORT

Mark A. Brogie – Compiler

508 Seeley, Creighton, NE 68729; mabrogie@gmail.com; (402) 358-5675

Once again, partly because of the 2025 Nebraska Birding Bowl we had some major county additions (those with lists of 125 species or more in a county).

SIXTY-THREE of the ninety-three Nebraska counties added at least one new birder to their lists: for a total of 165 new county additions.

Leading was Lancaster County where twenty-four new birders were added in 2025.

NEBRASKA LIFE-LISTS: (Hitting milestone #300 and above).

1. Congratulations to Bill Huser and Michael Willison for hitting the 400 number.
2. Tobin Brown (359) and Tommy Childers (355) both went over the 350 mark.
3. 100 NE birders now have 300 or more species; with eight new additions in 2025:
Keegan Brown, Eugene Huryn, Cody McGregor, Jacob Cooper, Shari Schwartz, Esa Jarvi, Jason St. Sauver, & Matt Shurtliff.
4. Shout-out to: Tobin Brown - up 34 (359), Tommy Childers -up 13 (355), and David Cunningham- up 10 (369) for being the three biggest movers for those on the 350+ Life-List category.

2025 NEBRASKA ANNUAL LIST:

SEVEN birders went over the 300 annual species total in 2025). GREAT JOB!

1. Tobin Brown tallied 355 (A NEW RECORD) on his second attempt at a Big Year.
2. Keegan Brown had 340 species in 2025 on his first attempt at a Big Year (5th highest).
3. David Cunningham (330): his 4th year in a row going over 300.
4. Eugene Huryn (327): first 300+ Big Year.
5. Mark A. Brogie (308): his 7th 300+ Big Year (tied with Michael Willison for MOST in this category).
6. Steven Mlodinow (306): his 5th year in a row going over 300.
7. Stephen Brenner (300): his 2nd year in a row going over 300.

Twenty-nine birders had annual total of 250 species or more in 2025.

2025 TOTAL SPECIES/COUNTY:

Biggest movers (over 250/county)

1. Cody McGregor added 40 in Buffalo (251).
2. Judson Buescher added 32 in Lancaster (268).
3. Tobin Brown added 23 in Lancaster (273).

NEBRASKA COUNTY ADDITIONS:

1. Ellen Brogie and Dave Stage added 12, Caleb Strand added 9, Larry Einemann and Eugene Huryn added 6, and Mark A. Brogie and Keegan Brown added 5 new counties to the Counties over 125 list.

Seventy-one individuals added one or more counties to their lists in 2025.

SPECIES IN ALL 93 COUNTIES:

1. Mark A. Brogie added two more species (36) (continuing his 2nd place in this category).
2. Larry Einemann added one more species to get to 20 in this difficult category.

SPECIES TOTALS FOR ALL 93 NEBRASKA COUNTIES:

Big Movers (over 5000) in this category:

1. Mark A. Brogie need seven to hit 16,000 and then added another 334 (16,334).
2. Dave Stage added 783 county birds to get over 13,000 (13,366) and into 4th place.
3. Robin Harding added 300 and topped the 12,000 mark (12,209).
4. Paul Roisen added 633 to top the 10,000 mark (10,118).
5. Ellen Brogie (7,838) and Brian Peterson (7,070) went over the 7,000 mark.
6. Randy Skaggs and Steve Brenner surpassed the 6,000 mark as did Caleb Strand by his Addition of an amazing 1,993 county birds to get to 6,288.
7. Tobin Brown, David Cunningham, Mary Clausen and Tom Gannon all went over 5,000.

NEBRASKA COUNTY LISTS:

Five county lead changes took place in 2025:

1. Mark A. Brogie took the lead in Arthur (144), Logan (156), and McPherson (147).
2. Glenda Burgess now leads in Grant (168).
3. Steven Mlodinow went over 300 in Scotts Bluff (303) and now leads in that county.

300 MILESTONES

1. Steve Kruse and Dan Ledger went over 300 in Lancaster County.
2. Kathy DeLara hit 300 in Scotts Bluff County.

BIG-DAY RECORDS:

Tommy Childers, Eugene Huryn, and Cody McGregor tallied 153 species on May 19, 2025 and moved into 6th place in this category.

TOTAL SPECIES PHOTOGRAPHED IN NEBRASKA:

Biggest three movers in this category: Tobin Brown – up 32 (347), Rita Flohr – up 25 (303) and Thane Dinsdale – up 18 (283).

TOTAL SPECIES w/AUDIO IN NEBRASKA:

Steven Mlodinow (218) takes the lead in this category!
